Integrated electronic plan review

Case study Santa Clara County

DigEplan expected to plug significant time drain for Santa Clara County

Expected to reduce plan review and administration time by over 50%, Santa Clara County is enthusiastic about the introduction of DigEplan, electronic plan review. The cloud-based DigEplan solution will be 100% integrated into the Accela Civic Platform.

Santa Clara County's current plan check review process involved a large number of staff and was ineffective and time-consuming. "The time and administration involved in the review process was significant. Hand marking of plans, compilation of comments in a separate document to the drawings, physical storage of plans and coordination of reviews by all necessary individuals was an unsustainable business practice," explained Chris Freitas, Santa Clara County.

"We expect the use of Accela's standard comments alongside DigEplan's stamping functions to reduce the plan review and administrative times by over 50%."

Removing the review time drain

"Our goal is to achieve review efficiency, reducing administration by 40%. The integration of DigEplan, which can enable users to simultaneously conduct a plan review, is absolutely vital to the Santa Clara County's electronic plan review transformation.

“We believe that our goal can only be achieved with a web-based, electronic plan review. It allows for greater flexibility to our cross functional review team to review projects, not just elements of a project, in an efficient and effective manner,” added Chris.

Santa Clara County is looking forward to reaping the rewards of using DigEplan for its electronic plan review.

“DigEplan will give us the knowledge that all documents are accessible through the web, and that document storage and control is predictable and consistent.”

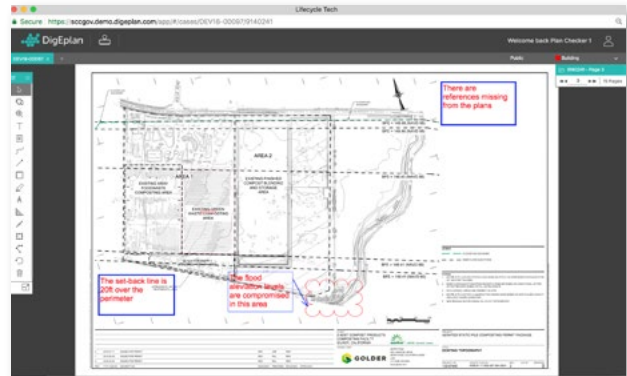

Multiple simultaneous review is also a key benefit for Santa Clara County. “DigEplan will enable the integration of project comments from up to seven independent reviewing agencies, all reviewing the same set of plans, and compiling one set of plan comments – concurrently.

“Unavoidable computer issues will no longer be a problem, as DigEplan autosaves plan reviews, safeguarding hours of work. And DigEplan offers professional quality and intuitive drawing tools. We are looking forward to all the benefits that DigEplan brings to help make our job more efficient,” said Chris.

Seamless workflows with Accela

DigEplan is 100% integrated into the Accela Civic Platform. With deep integration into Accela workflows, standard comments, documents tab and record lists, DigEplan enhances the existing investment in Accela enabling users to efficiently work with electronic plans.
